Your Renovation Wish List and Priorities

Use this worksheet to record the specific features and products you would like to include in your renovation. These ideas can come from many sources such as other renovations you have seen, design magazines, the Internet, retail showrooms, home shows, etc. Wherever possible, keep a back-up file of pictures, drawings, material samples or product literature.

The worksheet provides three "wish" categories:

The look relates to the overall design and room layout. When you find pictures of interiors or exteriors that you really like, cut these out and save them. On your wish list, write down the items or elements in each picture that most appeal to you.

The features are the finer details of design and layout. For instance, you may see a kitchen island that you think would work well in your home. Or the set-up of a home office you really like. This category isn't about complete designs, but the "bits and pieces" that you might incorporate into your plan.

The products and materials that really appeal to you. This could involve any product—cabinetry, flooring, windows, heating equipment—that you are interested in using. Again, where possible get pictures, product literature and price information on these items.

For each item on your wish list, indicate its level of priority. We need this are items you feel must be included in the project. We'd like this are items that you want, but could do without if your budget can't accommodate the cost.
